

Treating the Invisible Wounds of War Course Series

Free “Treating the Invisible Wounds of War” courses are now available to providers.

When military families, retirees and veterans come to you for care, they bring with them a unique background. Many have had to cope with multiple, long-term deployments; plus, they also must deal with routine stressors such as financial issues. Knowing a patient’s culture and mindset goes a long way toward providing the best care possible.

The Citizen Soldier Support Program (CSSP) offers free online courses to help providers better meet the needs of their military patients. This program is congressionally authorized and administered through the Odum Institute for Research and Social Science at the University of North Carolina—Chapel Hill.

“Treating the Invisible Wounds of War” courses are well suited to primary care physicians, case workers, mental health providers, and other professions who may see a veteran or family member. The series includes:

- A Primary Care Approach
- Employee Assistance in the Civilian Workforce
- Issues of Women Returning from Combat
- Recognizing the Signs of Mild Traumatic Brain Injury During Routine Eye Exams
- Understanding Military Family Issues
